After All This

Following a stint as artists-in-residence at Sydney's Carriageworks, acclaimed Melbourne ensemble Elbow Room (AFT Best Performance for 'There', Fringe '08; People's Choice Award for 'a tiny chorus', Fringe '09) take over Collingwood artspace Dear Patti Smith for a three-night-only event. In 'After All This', Elbow Room and special guest collaborators step into an imaginative exploration of what the 'afterlife' means in the contemporary age.

Following a stint as artists-in-residence at Sydney's Carriageworks, acclaimed Melbourne ensemble Elbow Room (AFT Best Performance for 'There', Fringe '08; People's Choice Award for 'a tiny chorus', Fringe '09) take over Collingwood artspace Dear Patti Smith for a three-night-only event. In 'After All This', Elbow Room (Marcel Dorney, Angus Grant and Emily Tomlins) and special guest collaborators step into an imaginative exploration of what the 'afterlife' might come to mean in the contemporary age.

Elbow Room are a Melbourne-based performance ensemble, founded in 2008. Marcel Dorney is a director and award-winning playwright, including the Queensland Premier's Drama Award for 'Fractions', which will be produced by QTC this November. Actor and performance makers Angus Grant (MDA, the Hayloft Project's 3xSisters) and Emily Tomlins (most recently in Sydney Theatre Company's 'Edward Gant's Amazing Feats of Loneliness') have worked extensively in theatre and television.

"[a tiny chorus is] spare, plaintive and exceptionally well performed." - Jason Blake, Sydney Morning Herald
"...(P)retty much my perfect piece of performance... There is brilliant." - John Bailey, RealTime
"If it returns, beg, borrow or steal a ticket." - The Sunday Age
