Consilience - We All Jump Together Antonia Goodfellow

'Consilience - We All Jump Together'

by Antonia Goodfellow at

Kings ARI Gallery

Black is blue in the absence of the sun. Black is the colourlessness beyond our biosphere. Our discarded materials remind us viscerally that we are bound by our bodies in the finite world, to and by matter.

A large-scale installation/sculptural object that conjures images reminiscent of the natural world but is in fact a synthetic construction. A very rubbery artificial simulation/super magnification of the micro universe described visually through the use of recycled and repurposed materials.

"It's like having astronomy without knowing where the stars are." - Edward O. Wilson
