"Eve"

a monologue written by Kate Philip

Eve is found in the middle of a carnal quartet when she follows the man that she greatly wants into the chamber of 'earthly delights'.

Eve is a young sophisticated woman whose sexuality is awakened by this experience. But the effect this has on her is expressed through her self-analysis where she questions the choices she made.

Eve is a monologue performed by Hana Vraniqi and it is a period piece set in the late 40's.

This piece covers the subject of a sexual nature and the zones of comfort that challenge the protagonist. Eve is young, bright, but restrained in many ways and this is where she desperately seeks balance. Eve will take her audience on a journey through sexually charged visual sequences that are beautifully choreographed.
