Innocent Bystander presents: In Search of Atlantis

Two hapless Australian explorers, a lost city and critically-acclaimed...wine. In Search of Atlantis by Mager & Smythe heads to the special location of Innocent Bystander winery in the delightful surrounds of Healesville, in the Yarra Valley, over three nights as part of the 2011 Melbourne Fringe Festival.

In Search of Atlantis is an action-adventure comedy musical centred on a journey into the unknown to find the sunken city of Atlantis. On the way the explorers are kicked out of the Australian Academy of Science by an overtly racist drunken professor, are forced to run from the Egyptian police and are sentenced to death by the Atlantean natives who, because of their more evolved state, turn out to be quite up themselves.

The show toured nationally receiving rave reviews and awards including The Melbourne Cabaret Festival Award at the 2009 Melbourne Fringe Festival and a nomination for Best Cabaret at the 2010 Adelaide Fringe Festival.

Enjoy a free glass of wine and sit beside the oak in their cavernous cask room – the performance space for this very special event.

"The pair take the audience deep into their bumbling adventures, resulting in a performance which is one hundred per cent on song." - Jessica Leo, The Advertiser

"A musical comedy act in the vein of Tripod, Flight of the Conchords and Tenacious D, Kai and Tim display superb singer/songwriting and comic talent in the hour-long show." - Jamie Wright, Adelaide Theatre Guide
