Lou Sanz - Not Suitable for Children

On the back of her success at the 2011 Melbourne Emerging Writers Festival, Lou Sanz presents a deliciously dark concoction of stories at The Workers Club in Fitzroy, as part of the 2011 Melbourne Fringe Festival. 'Lou Sanz - Not Suitable For Children', features such hilarious and utterly wrong classics, 'Let's Get Wet Together' and 'Carla the Ethnic', and will leave you walking away from the show wondering, "who hurt you?"

'Not Suitable For Children' proves to be Lou's most celebrated work to date. She overwhelmingly sold out her 2011 season at The Sydney Comedy Festival, while quickly making a name for herself with her distinctive style of caustic, explicit and downright hilarious stories. Such is Lou's appeal, Melbourne Magazine recently listed her in their annual 'Watch This Face' write up.

Not just a favourite in her home country, Lou is also making waves in the US, where she has again been invited to present her show at the IndyFringe Festival in Indianapolis, after enjoying critical acclaim for her 2010 show, 'Please Don't Use My Flannel For That'.

Lou is also developing a large following of readers via her blog, 'The Problematic World Of Lou', and is busy working on a feature film screenplay with Warp X (the team behind 'Snowtown'), which is currently in development.
